

Just a very quick note from the meeting last Wednesday.

37 members zoomed in many with their better halves. David Pantling provided us with a superb presentation on the, almost forgotten, R34 project. It turns out that the R34 was (literally) the UK copy of the German Zeppelins. Having broken records by flying to New York and back its crew (and cat) were rapidly lost to history, until David found them. After a good number of questions, Steve George gave a vote of thanks. Peter Hurst provided a virtual glass of port in celebration of him passing his first year Open University masters module. With 5 more years to come he may not get away so likely in the future.

Our next meeting will be on 2nd September 19:30, a council meeting where members are welcome to listen in and contribute.

Many thanks
Bryan
